Performing Arts Center (Orpheum= 0.5mi,4min; Holland=0.8mi,5min)
 The Omaha Performing Arts Center is actually two venues: the Orpheum Theater and the Holland Center for the Performing Arts. The Orpheum Theater, constructed in 1927, is the host to traveling Broadway shows, dance shows, and traveling comedians among others. The Holland Center for the Performing arts is housed in a modern, architecturally acclaimed building noted for its fine acoustics. It has had the honor of hosting some of the world's premiere musicians and is the home of the Omaha Symphony.

Lauritzen Gardens (2 mi., 6min. from our Hotel)
 These 100-acre gardens are in the riverfront hills area of the city and make for a pleasant place to observe nature in its finest form. Lauritzen Gardens were founded in 1995 and have grown and expanded their displays from the initial rose, herb, and shade hosta gardens among others. Now visitors will find gardens focusing on many themes, from English and Victorian, to one on Nebraskan prairies, called Song of the Lark Meadow. The gardens also feature a model railroad, education center, and a bird sanctuary. Address: 100 Bancroft Street, Omaha Official site: www.lauritzengardens.org/

New to Omaha this year The Major League Baseball first-year player draft has a new home. The draft will move to Omaha in 2020. Previously, the draft has taken place at the MLB Network studio in New Jersey. The draft will run Wednesday, June 10 through Friday, June 12, leading up to the start of the College World Series.
